

July 11, 2007

Dear Senator,

As clergy from a broad spectrum of religious traditions, we urge you to support S. 1105, the Matthew Shepard Local Law Enforcement Hate Crimes Prevention Act. By passing this bill, Congress can express with one voice its commitment to ending brutal, hate-motivated violence.

Although we come from diverse faith backgrounds, our traditions and sacred texts are united in condemning hate and violence. As religious leaders, we are on the front lines dealing with the devastating effects hate-motivated violence has on our communities. Hate crimes not only harm individuals, they also rend the fabric of society by making entire communities feel isolated, vulnerable and unprotected. We know that legislation alone cannot remove hate from the hearts and minds of individuals, but we also know hate crimes legislation such as the LLEHCPA will help create a society where hate-motivated violence is deemed intolerable. Our faith traditions teach us to love our neighbor, and while we cannot legislate love, it is our moral duty to protect one another from hatred and violence.

As people of faith we also know that free speech is a precious right. We would not support a bill that did not contain ample protections for free speech, including preaching and statements of religious belief. This law does not criminalize or impede religious expression in any way. Rather, the bill specifically addresses violent acts by those who act on their hate to terrorize entire communities. Although the legislation has attracted a few loud opponents from the radical right who wrongly claim to represent all religious people, we fair-minded clergy will not waver in our condemnation of prejudice of all forms and our support for this hate crimes legislation.

Religion and government must work together to create a society in which diverse people are safe as well as free. As leaders of America's religious communities, we urge Congress to stand united against one of the worst forms of oppression: violence based on personal characteristics and identity. Please do so by supporting, without amendment, the Matthew Shepard Local Law Enforcement Hate Crimes Prevention Act (S. 1105).

Sincerely,
